The Great Deception

by Robert Kettering

So the dems have abandoned Joe Biden because the polling said he'll lose in a landslide, and now they have installed Kamala Harris as their candidate. And now the party who says they are going to save democracy has just installed a candidate who didn't run in the primary and never even received a single vote! Does that sound like democracy to you? It certainly doesn't to me. But let's move on.

Just who is this candidate that they have inserted and just what does she believe and what policies will she promote if elected? Well, both of her parents are college professors, but more specifically, her father is a Marxist professor who taught at Stanford. Is her father the person who taught Kamala her liberal, Marxist ideas? It's hard to know for sure, but most of us tend to follow the beliefs of our parents, so that certainly is a very real possibility. More recently, she served as the U.S. Senator of California from 2017–2021, where she earned the reputation of being the most liberal, pro-government senator in the country! Let that sink in; out of 100 Senators, she was the most liberal, even more liberal than Bernie Sanders!

So now the dems have rid themselves of the feeble Joe Biden and installed a more electable Kamala Harris, but they still have a problem because they know that this is a center/right country and will never elect someone on the far left. They know that the majority of voters don't agree with Kamala's positions on defunding the police, gun control, reparations for slavery, and taxpayer-funded transsexual surgery for illegal aliens (just to name a few), so they have to recreate Kamala into a moderate, more centrist candidate who the voters will accept. So miraculously, and overnight, Kamala has changed her positions and says she no longer holds the beliefs that she held before. As Trump said in the last debate, "her positions have changed so much, I was thinking of sending her a MAGA hat." So the obvious question is, how did this happen? Why did she change the beliefs that she held for nearly 60 years? Now if she told us that she was watching an old Billy Graham crusade and decided to give her life to the Lord, then we could understand such a radical change of her beliefs. But she offers us absolutely no explanation or reason for these policy changes.

But now I am even more confused because I just watched her TV commercial where she looks me straight in the eye and says, "MY VALUES HAVE NOT CHANGED"! Well, you and I know something about values. Values are a set of beliefs; for example, God's word teaches us to value human life, so as followers of his word, we oppose abortion because abortion destroys human life. The Bible teaches us to be diligent and faithful workers, so we believe in hard work as opposed to a government handout. These values that we believe make us who we are, and then our values determine the policies that we support. My point is that if our values do not change, then our policies will not change, and this is precisely the problem with what she is saying. She tells us that her values have not changed while at the same time she tells us that her policies have changed. We are asked to believe that she has abandoned the Marxist, liberal ideas that she held for nearly 60 years, that she is no longer a liberal but is now a moderate. So if her values have not changed, how then can it be that her beliefs and policies have changed? Because the former determines the latter.

If by now you are somewhat confused as to what she believes, let me offer you a more simple and a more believable explanation. I don't often quote Bernie Sanders, but when he was asked if Kamala had abandoned her liberal beliefs, he said this, "No, I don't believe that she has abandoned her beliefs, she is just saying what she has to say in order to win an election." So there it is, and it all makes perfect sense. Her values have NOT changed; she is just saying what she has to say to appear to be a moderate in order to win an election. Here's the bottom line. This is the most deceptive and inauthentic campaign that I have ever witnessed, and no one should be fooled by it. Please pray that this deception will be exposed and that truth will be revealed.
